

Academy of Information Technology Engineering
Empowering Students to Shape the Future

- Small Student Population
- IT & Pre-Engineering Programs
- Technology Rich Environment
- Rigorous Academic Preparation
- Early College Experience
- Virtual High School
- Multicultural Diversity
- Develops the Whole Child

Holly Pond Plaza to under go major renovation Major renovation: Work at Stamford office building to start soon

Richard Lee, Staff Writer
Published 10:00 p.m., Monday, June 27, 2011

This artist's rendition shows the new face of the Holly Pond Plaza at 1281 E. Main St., when renovations are completed at the end of 2011. Photo: Contributed Photo, Contributed / Stamford Advocate Contributed

Congregation Shir Ami
A Reform Congregation located in Downtown Greenwich

Be our guest for the High Holy Days
Experience the joy of our intimate community all year long

All are Welcome
young families • interfaith • seniors • empty nesters • lgbt

MORE NEWS GALLERIES

Moving moments from the 9/11 anniversary

CT Tributes to 9/11

National September 11 Memorials

Comments (0)

Larger | Smaller

Printable Version

0 tweets

0 Share

Email This

Font

Two commercial real estate development companies have embarked on a multi million-dollar renovation of a Stamford office building, aiming to finish the project by the end of this year.

Faros Properties LLC, with offices in Boston and New York City, and Gould and Co., based in Boston, have contracted with the Stamford office of Cushman & Wakefield to market Holly Pond Plaza, a 70,000-square-foot office building at 1281 E. Main St.

Faros and Gould, which acquired the site last year, hired Perkins Eastman in Stamford to design the changes, which include extensive interior and exterior work.

Landscaping upgrades will be done by Eric Rains Landscape Architecture in Norwalk.

FROM OUR HOMEPAGE

MORE NEWS

Witness to the unthinkable: Greenwich Point onlookers recall the day the towers fell

Holly Pond Plaza was an exceptional investment opportunity, said Alexander Leventhal, managing partner of Faros Properties.

"We are extremely pleased with the progress to date and are confident that the property will be fully leased upon completion of the renovation work," he said.

The property features views of Holly Pond, and availability includes the entire third and fourth floors, and the majority of space on the first and second floors. Signage or building naming rights are available for a significantly sized tenant.

The reflective glass and brick office building was constructed in 1981 near East and Weed avenues. The first three levels are reserved for indoor parking, and the four upper floors are dedicated to office space.

Gregory Frisoli, senior director at Cushman and Wakefield, and Adam Klimek, associate director, are leasing agents for the property.

"Holly Pond Plaza features incredible water views, aggressive economics and new office space build outs," Frisoli said. "The entire building is backed up by an emergency generator. It's a boutique office building that when renovated will have a fit and feel of a Class A office building. From a pricing perspective, it (lease rates) will be at a lower cost than all Class A office buildings in the central business district."

Proximity to the Chelsea Piers sports center project on Blachley Road will benefit Holly Pond, said Laure Aubuchon, Stamford economic development director.

"It (Holly Pond) is directly off I-95 and will be close to Chelsea Piers," she said, adding that it could attract tenants to the office building.

Memorials a heavy lift

Photos: Conn. remembers 9/11

Redskins rough up Giants

In wake of Obama jobs speech, Greenwich Dems rally with candidates

Greenwich High students, neighbors have varying concerns about toxic soil

LATEST NEWS

Greenwich's 9/11 memorials: A decade of success, delays and controversy 11:30 p.m.

Greenwich remembers 9/11 attacks in annual service 11:27 p.m.

Journalist, an ex-Greenwich resident, recalls covering 9/11 attacks for national news 09:41 p.m.

Grief, reflection mark Flight 93 memorial ceremony 09:40 p.m.

Witness to the unthinkable: Greenwich Point onlookers recall the day the towers fell 10:02 p.m.

Printable Version    Email This    Share    0    0    tweet

We Recommend

- Ten years older, Greenwich children who lost a parent...
- Conn. treasurer Denise Nappier has car towed, forced to walk home
- Burned-out factory remains an eyesore -- one year later
- British Invasion! Part 3 Strike Back
- Folk caps rally, kicks Jets past Cowboys 27-24
- Scene of terror becomes source of solace

More from Our Partners

- Investing basics: IRAs (Bank Rate)
- Tenet sees results at bottom end of forecast range (MarketWatch.com)
- 10 Banks On Solid Financial Footing (TheStreet)
- Europe bank, sovereign CDS spreads hit records (MarketWatch.com)
- Capital One/ING Deal Gets Fed Scrutiny: Report (TheStreet)

[Sponsored links]